Stormwater Management – Pratt Well Pad

May 5, 2015

Due to the recent rainy weather, Encana will be conducting additional stormwater control maintenance along the Pratt well pad right-of-way this week.

This may include installing some additional berms and the use of construction equipment.

Encana will continue to monitor their stormwater management over the next few weeks and make adjustments as needed. All work will be done during daylight hours.

None of this activity is related to new drilling or completion operations.
